Sara says "I have loved the stars in the night sky and been fascinated by mythology for all of my life. If the Moon controls the ocean's tides, it just goes to show how it can affect human bodies which are greater than 60% water. Astrology is the most insightful and extensive self-development tool I have come across. It never ceases to amaze me, how many layers of understanding are contained in just a simple birth chart"

Potential Areas for Growth are:

- Self-understanding & self-validation
- Learning to love and respect oneself through developing self esteem & assertiveness
- Understanding life purpose
- Determining strengths and aligning them to potential vocations or careers
- Understanding the current energy changes and life cycles being experienced
- Dealing with relationship issues, by recognizing the energy being integrated through diversity, between family members
- Identifying with archetypes and myths from ancestral line and past lives, along with the resulting lessons for this life

What is Astrology?

Astrology works on the concept that what happens in the sky above, provides energy to be used in our lives down on Earth. "As Above – So Below"

We have free will to use that energy as we see fit. If we are unconscious of it's existence we will tend to experience it as fate or destiny, or external events happening to us. However when we are conscious of it, we can use it to optimise our experiences and integrate our lessons, enhancing our self-development journey.

The Natal chart outlines our life blueprint or potential from the position of the stars at our birth. An accurate birth time is needed to predict which areas of your life and development will be impacted by the planetary energies. If an accurate birth time is not known, this can be determined through tracking significant events from your life against your chart, this is called Rectification.

As the stars continue to orbit the sun in the sky they transit or trigger different points in your natal chart bringing different energy to be experienced in a variety of ways. The Evolutionary reading examines a period of around 5 years surrounding the current time to assist in self-development and growth. It takes into account transits, progressions and directions, such as Solar Arc and Solar Return. Some astrologers offer this as an annual update, usually focused on the birthday. Sara finds it more useful to broaden the focus.

She has no problem with conducting these readings on an annual basis, however, as often a new emerging energy can become significant and change the current focus.

The Soul reading places special emphasis on past life aspects of the Natal chart and current transits and progressions which are bringing energy to trigger the Moon and Lunar Nodes.

As well as the traditional luminaries and planets in the sky, there is a suite of asteroids and Fixed Stars supplying energy which relates strongly to our psychic, healing and intuitive abilities. Inner Goddess readings examine the placement of these energies in association to your natal chart and observe any interesting transits or progressions that may eventuate in the near future.

Natal charts may be compared between two people in a process known as Synastry. This can identify areas of potential synergy and possible difficulties likely to arise within partnerships or relationships. Sara prefers to only conduct these type of readings when both people have some understanding of their own natal potential, through previous Natal chart consultations. From an ethical viewpoint she will not undertake such a reading without written consent of the other party and believes the best outcomes occur when both parties attend the reading.

Astrological consultations produce the best value as a two-way process, with frank discussion of how the energy presents for the client, and could best be optimized.

Traditional Horary techniques can be used to answer questions such as attempting to locate lost items. Sara can also offer guidance on the best timing for events, such as marriage or opening a business using a technique called Electional astrology.
